Design your kitchen with Germany-made SilicaTec kitchen sinks from hansgrohe

The hansgrohe SilicaTec sink 450 with drainer is especially suitable for compact kitchens and you can use the surface for food preparation.

With its new SilicaTec granite range of kitchen sinks, the hansgrohe brand, renowned for its innovative and high quality bathroom and kitchen fittings, offers a comprehensive range for the kitchen centrepiece, combining a warm and welcoming look, elegant colours, premium design and long-lasting quality. These Germany-made granite sinks are designed together with Phoenix Design, who has been awarded “Red Dot: Design Team of the Year” in 2018 and they have won more than 800 design awards to date.

With SilicaTec, hansgrohe utilizes a composite made from quartz and acrylic resins, which has a natural look and is pleasing to the touch. But that’s not all it has to offer: only rounded quartz particles from quartz sand, the hardest constituent of granite, are processed. The result is a smooth, hard and non-porous surface, easy to clean and dirt repellent. It is odourless, UV-stable, heat resistant, food safe, impact resistant and stain resistant. Red wine, coffee, tea and even hot pots and pans leave no trace: a robust and attractive all-rounder for even the most hectic of kitchen routines.

The prestigious Phoenix Design studio created the minimalist, linear design of the range. The broad rim surface, so distinctive of the design, showcases the material and provides room for additional features.

Anyone who enjoys multi-tasking will love the hansgrohe double sinks: If you regularly have to handle large containers or baking dishes, the hansgrohe SilicaTec granite sink with two large basins would be the ideal choice (each 370 mm wide).

From 1 June 2020 – 31 July 2020, Hansgrohe Singapore will pledge 5% of all online and retail sales proceeds to support HealthServe Singapore, in line with our commitment to give back to the important migrant community. So, when you design your kitchen with hansgrohe’s SilicaTec granite sinks, you are also contributing to a good cause!

MORE ENTRIES THAN EVER BEFORE: JURY FOR RED DOT AWARD HAS SELECTED YEAR'S BEST PRODUCTS

With record entry numbers, extensive testing procedures and exciting discussions, the Red Dot Award: Product Design 2020 saw the jury convene in the Ruhr region at the beginning of March in order to award the year's best products. The roughly 40 experts were met with a diverse selection of entries, with more products submitted to the competition in 2020 than ever before. The jurors scrutinised the entries and discussed them at length. From the objects submitted, they selected only those that won them over with their outstanding design quality to win an award. With the introduction of the two metacategories "Smart Products" and "Innovative Products", there was a special focus on revolutionary designs this year.

Entry figures reach record high Designers and companies entered more than 6,500 products in the Red Dot Award: Product Design in 2020. This constitutes a rise of approximately 18 percent in entry numbers compared to the prior year. The participants in the competition came from 60 countries, which is five more than in 2019. Juror Simon Husslein, founder of the workshop of the same name, praised the diverse selection on show in the Red Dot Judging Hall: "We have discovered fantastic products here. When you go through the aisles and see all kinds of objects, the quantity is really overwhelming. These include some top-class products that stand out, and it is incredibly good fun to identify those products and give them an award."

Intensive examination of products and exciting discussions

The adjudication process spanning several days was based on two fundamental criteria: an intensive examination of the products and an open discussion among the jurors. The experts tested all of the entries in order to assess not just the aesthetic but also the materials selected, the level of craftsmanship, the surface structure, ergonomics and functionality. This meant that they rode the bicycles and drove the vehicles entered, tested knives by cutting vegetables and tried out the juicers live on site. Among other things, jury member Adriana Monk, founder of design studio Monk Design, tested the cars and motorcycles at the airport in Essen/Mülheim: "As a true product designer, I always think you have to look at form and function.

Adriana Monk

The fact that we get to drive these vehicles is incredibly important, because it gives you a chance to really feel what the car looks like."

The fact that the experts come from all over the globe and from different specialist areas means that lively discussions ensue. These are essential, as the jurors must reach a group decision in order to award a distinction. True to the motto "In search of good design and innovation", only the best designs receive an award.

Only 1.2 of entries receive Red Dot: Best of the Best

The jury awarded the highest distinction in the competition to just 76 products. The Red Dot: Best of the Best, which recognises the best objects in a category, thus only went to 1.2 of entries – an indication of their groundbreaking design quality. In addition, 1,644 designs won the Red Dot, the distinction for high design quality.

"I want to congratulate the award winners sincerely on their wonderful success in the Red Dot Award: Product Design. It's always impressive to observe how the jurors try out the products in detail and sometimes end up in heated debates. It's not easy to win those debates. So I can say with absolute confidence that the award-winning products are of top-class quality," said Professor Dr. Peter Zec, founder and CEO of Red Dot.

Professor Dr. Peter Zec

A focus on smart and innovative products

This year, participants had the option to register their products in the metacategories "Smart Products" or "Innovative Products" for the first time. From Apple, Acer and Braun to FUJIFILM, hansgrohe and Honda as well as Philips and Robert Bosch Hausgeräte, reputable brands presented their progressive designs as part of this novel development. Apple in particular took a leading position in the new metacategories: the US company received a total of four Red Dot: Best of the Best distinctions in these categories – for the iPhone 11 Pro, the AirPods Pro, the Mac Pro and the Pro Display XDR.

The jurors also awarded a Red Dot: Best of the Best in the metacategory “Innovative Products” to transport robot “gita”. The hands-free carrier from Piaggio Fast Forward carries its user’s luggage or office supplies, for example, and follows along behind. The robot can avoid all obstacles using a 360-degree camera and sensors that scan the surroundings. The carrier’s large wheels also ensure that it can move quickly.

Publication of the award-winning products

Whether functional, aesthetic, smart or innovative, these and other products will be presented in the online exhibition on the Red Dot website from 22 June 2020. The exhibition will offer interested parties detailed descriptions, easy-to-understand images and further information on the designers and manufacturers. The winning products will also be on show in the Red Dot Design Museum Essen from that date. The Red Dot Design Yearbook 2020/2021 comes out in July 2020.

About the Red Dot Design Award

In order to appraise the diversity in the field of design in a professional manner, the Red Dot Design Award breaks down into the three disciplines of Red Dot Award: Product Design, Red Dot Award: Brands & Communication Design and Red Dot Award: Design Concept. With more than 18,000 entries, the Red Dot Award is one of the world’s largest design competitions. In 1955, a jury convened for the first time to assess the best designs of the day. In the 1990s, Red Dot CEO Professor Dr. Peter Zec developed the name and brand of the award. Ever since, the sought-after distinction “Red Dot” has been the revered international seal of outstanding design quality. The award winners are presented in the yearbooks, museums and online.

For more information, visit www.red-dot.de.

Furthermore, the smart locking solution “Linus”, manufactured by Yale and designed by Fuseproject, won a Red Dot. The product offers users a whole new sense of security: they can lock and unlock the door, grant guests keyless entry and check who is going in and out. The automatic unlocking function ensures that the door opens as soon as the user approaches. The intelligent product equally won over the jury with its modern, streamlined language of form.

ICONIC DESIGN MEETS INSPIRING BRASS: DORNBRACHT INTRODUCES TARA IN A BRUSHED DURABRASS FINISH THAT RADIATES A GLOW LIKE NEVER BEFORE

Its warm and deeply intense gold hue and unique brushed texture offers a matte look while retaining impressive color depth and sheen. The Brushed Durabarass finish appears to glow from within, a striking characteristic that further highlights Tara's extraordinary charisma.

The spectrum of styles in interior design has never been as extensive and diverse as it is today. Minimalist tendencies meet opulence, progressive meets traditional, and organic meets high-tech aesthetics. Contemporary living spaces are marked by the pursuit of individuality, vitality, and personal expression. At the same time, the demand for comfort and an inviting environment with authentic design is increasing.

Tara in Brushed Durabrass is a direct response to this growing demand. It blends effortlessly into contemporary interiors even when contrast and tension are present. Depending on the interior surroundings, Tara in Brushed Durabrass can appear luxurious or modest, classic or avant-garde, elegant or expressive.

Tara – a radiant icon

Tara retains the special appeal of an archetype: Its style-defining design has received countless accolades and has been emulated numerous times around the world. What defines the Tara series of fittings lies within its balanced proportions, characteristic cross handles and striking, semicircular spout. Its timeless, archetypal design seems as familiar as it does new.

For almost three decades, the Tara range of fittings has proven that it is timelessly modern, showing time and again how easily it can be adapted and updated. Its many iterations is a perennial favorite for bathroom and kitchen design due to its ability to complement a wide variety of interior styles. The Brushed Durabrass finish reinforces the versatility of the Tara fitting and reveals an exciting new dimension of the design icon.

Inspiring brass – a touch of luxury

Brushed Durabrass is an electroplated finish which includes high-quality 23-carat gold.

The unique finish gives the fitting a matte look with impressive sheen that highlights its golden hues making it undeniably radiant.

This unique "glow" is the result of a highly precise and complex treatment process where the manufacturing technique plays a vital role. Each part of the fitting is brushed individually by hand in a pre-specified direction before the finish is applied.

During the subsequent electroplating step, individual particles of genuine gold settle down into the finest recesses of the brush strokes. This guarantees a completely even and flawless finish with exceptional sheen and color depth.

ONE OF THE BRAND'S MOST REPRESENTATIVE KITCHENS IS ENHANCED WITH NEW FINISHES, MODULARITY AND DETAILS, SUCH AS NEW EXCLUSIVE DEKOR GLASS PANELS

Now more than ever, the kitchen is the hub of the home, the favourite room, the place where you spend a large part of your day in company. This is why Euromobil, whose expertise in this field is acknowledged and appreciated worldwide, has decided to give TELERO a new look. The brand's iconic kitchen is inspired by 16th century Venetian canvases known as "teleri". A distinctive feature is the presence of doors with an aluminium frame, to which glass or porcelain stoneware elements can be attached, providing an outstanding monochrome and single-material effect.

Euromobil is presenting it today with new finishes and modularity that complement its lines. The new version of TELERO comes with updated fronts and an extended range with a new glass collection called Dekor available in 9 versions. Its strength is based, as the name itself suggests, on exclusive decorations because they are tailor-made. IMAGE open base units are also a novelty, originating from the success of the system of the same name presented at Eurocucina in 2018.

To enhance this version, you can choose from accessories such as two sliding elements - AMBROGIO and MOTUS - that give the kitchen dynamic and technological appeal. They are also available for all Euromobil kitchens. AMBROGIO is a countertop container fitted with a motorized roll-up closing system and a backlit back panel. Made of the same material used for sunshades, it rises from the worktop.

No doors are required and, consequently, any encumbrance they create on opening is eliminated. MOTUS is another sliding element placed behind the worktop, leaning against the wall, which acts as a support for various utensils, spices, books or objects. It runs along the worktop, ensuring that utensils are always to hand. If required, it can be positioned behind Ambrogio, so that the kitchen is always tidy.

TELERO therefore surprises again with new elements that aim to further refine a very successful model, certainly among the most representative of the brand. A process of constant improvement encourages Euromobil to experiment in research and innovation, refining every single detail of its kitchens, which are always increasingly popular with consumers.

A PERFECT COMBINATION OF LOOK AND TOUCH: THE NEW F 45 PROGRAMME BY LEICHT

F 45 with its ultra-matt Fenix surface and 45-degree chamfered edge has all the answers to contemporary requirements: it is compelling in terms of touch and the visual effect of the materials used, is hard-wearing and can be implemented in a number of ways – for perfect planning down to the very last detail. Along with its fine look, the new programme cuts a convincing figure particularly with its pleasant feel and perfected anti-fingerprint effect. Thanks to its hard-wearing material characteristics, F 45 can be implemented in numerous scenarios, rounds off each concept with its combination of material, colour and surface finish, and makes for a fine graphic overall effect with the 45° edge.

In combination with elegant woods, top-quality veneers, natural stone or raw concrete, the soft, top-quality Fenix material effect is particularly appealing – both as a floor-to-ceiling unit front and in the form of worktops. Fenix – a new generation of composite material. In its core structure, the new LEICHT programme F 45 consists of more than 60% paper, as do all Fenix products, and is manufactured and impregnated as a composite material with thermoset resins. A pressing process, which simultaneously exerts warmth and pressure, results in a homogeneous, pore-free material.

With a sturdy basic structure and the possibility of thermal repairs to superficial micro scratches this product is ideal for top-quality, long-lasting kitchen space planning. The outer face is treated with innovative acrylic resins which are hardened and fused in an electron-beam procedure. This gives the surface low-light reflectivity that makes it extremely opaque – this makes the surface pleasantly soft with an ultra-matt look and practical anti-fingerprint finish. 45° precision with a contour Perfection down to the very last detail: with F 45, LEICHT is fulfilling this demand and is including a new programme in its product portfolio which cuts a convincing figure not only because of its captivating surface qualities but also its 45° chamfered edge.

This additional edge detail results in a graphic, linear effect. This means the programme is ideal for use in form-fitting, architecturally demanding kitchen scenarios and places gentle, but effective accents in a number of applications – from the classic unit front to the worktop. With F 45, LEICHT is giving planners a further possibility to resolutely implement elegant and holistic room concepts.

MARK WOLINSKY AND MARIO MUTO ARE PROUD TO INTRODUCE BEMMA, A NEW COMPANY FOCUSED ON DESIGNER VANITIES AND ACCESSORIES

With the launch of eight inaugural collections at the Kitchen & Bath Industry Show (KBIS) 2020 in Las Vegas to overwhelming response, BEMMA is focused on addressing a clear gap in the luxury/high-end vanity market segment.

“The BEMMA line was created to differentiate itself from the sea of grey vanities that are out there,” says Mario Muto, General Manager and Head Designer at BEMMA Design. “We are developing bolder designs from a modernist viewpoint, yet which are equally suited to traditional or classic homes.”

Filling a void

Following an in-depth market study and competitive analysis of the vanity space, BEMMA was launched as a solution to compete in the mid to lower high-end product market, addressing a void created by a series of mergers, acquisitions, and failings in the industry. By focusing on a new design aesthetic of quality transitional and traditional products, at an attractive price point, BEMMA enters the market as a competitive alternative to Ferguson's James Martin and Signature Hardware collections, among others.

"With some of the dynamics unfolding in the industry, we saw an opening for a reasonably priced, mid to lower high-end product," explains Mark Wolinsky, Owner and President of WETSTYLE and founding partner of BEMMA. "We created this company to focus on vanities ranging from $1,200-$3,000, including countertop, sink, vanity, and backsplash, and we believe that many independent distributors will be interested in selling some nice new designs."

Built for the long run

With its generous use of solid woods, inlaid satin brass metal trim, and Sherwin Williams Level-5 finishes, BEMMA is focused on delivering high-end, design-driven vanities featuring attractive new colours and design aesthetics. Embracing both style and quality, BEMMA's line of vanities are built to last by virtue of their dovetail construction and incorporation of solid materials including kiln-dried oak, walnut, and birch wood, European soft-closing drawer glides, Italian Carrara marble, high-end Sherwin Williams lacquer finishes, brass handles, ceramic glazes, and more.

BEMMA's eight contemporary, traditional, and transitional collections, including Gracie, Montauk, Lucio, Terra, Canyon, Hudson, Zanzi, and Clara, feature refined form and function, with clean, sophisticated lines and a variety of elegant finishes. Most of the collections are available in four sizes, ranging from 24" to 60", in multiple choices of colour, and all of the collections are backed by a five-year warranty.

Founders Club

In addition to distinguishing itself with fresh new designs, exceptional quality, and reasonable price points, BEMMA is offering an attractive go-to-market approach to potential distributors. Beginning in June 2020, BEMMA products will be stocked on both the East and West coasts, available for quick shipments from either Atlanta or Los Angeles for 1-2 day delivery.

Additionally, BEMMA is offering a very compelling program to its first 100 founding distributors. LAPITEC IS NATURALLY AN EXTREMELY HYGIENIC MATERIAL, IDEAL FOR ARCHITECTURAL AND INTERIOR PROJECTS, DUE TO ITS PATENTED COMPOSITION

The ongoing public health emergency is laying the groundwork for a new future on a global scale, and entire supply chains have had to undergo urgent reorganisation. The design world is no exception, where redistribution and segmentation of spaces, hygiene, safety, and management of flows of people will be priorities in the coming period.

Among the many topics under the spotlight is how the choice of materials in architecture and interior and product design can open the door to innovative solutions, capable of ensuring people's safety and high standards of performance at the same time.

Lapitec, a mixture of 100% natural minerals manufactured in large slabs, is an ideal covering material for current requirements, due to its non-porous surface which prevents dirt from accumulating and mould and bacteria from growing. Its patented production process, and its environmentally friendly composition, give the slabs excellent hygiene properties. Besides being easy to clean, Lapitec is a fluid-repellent material: a surface on which liquids flow, a particularly interesting feature in vertical cladding where the rain flows away and carries dirt with it. Its composition does not contain resins or petroleum derivatives, so that it does not contaminate the water used in manufacturing. The collection range also contains very low percentages of crystalline silica (quartz), while in the new Musa collection this percentage is zero, making this a safe material with regard to the health of the people that process it.

Lapitec is durable (resistant to environmental conditions, the ravages of time, and extreme temperatures), chemical-resistant, fully recyclable and can be used in interiors and exteriors, vertical cladding and horizontal surfaces, such as flooring, covering, swimming pools, showers or saunas, or for the creation of household accessories and kitchen tops.

SCIROCCO H CREATES SUNSHINE ENERGY THE ULTRA THIN RADIANT PANEL WITH INNOVATIVE ELECTRIC OPERATION

Minimum thickness, reduced installation distance from the wall and an innovative technological heart that heats it. These are the characteristics of Scirocco H's new ultra-thin steel radiant panel: Sunshine Energy.

Just like the hydronic model, it retains one of its distinguishing features: the thickness of only 14mm, however, to which it adds an even smaller distance from the wall (only 4cm). This allows a closer installation to the wall for an even more minimal and discreet aesthetic result.

But Sunshine Energy's true innovation is the technology consisting of a resistive heating circuit inserted in a low thickness silicone sheath: a special technology that allows excellent heat exchange between the heating elements and the metal surface of the radiator, to ensure maximum thermal efficiency and reduction of heat loss.

The new radiator is sold complete with a wireless kit equipped with a room thermostat for ideal temperature regulation and keeping energy consumption under control.

Other accessories include a robe hook, towel holder and towel rack.

Sunshine Energy can be ordered in the 67 colours of the Scirocco H range and in three sizes: 360mmx1200mm, 360mmx1500mm and 510mmx1800mm, with both vertical and horizontal installation.

ECOSTAT E THERMOSTAT

by hansgrohe

The CoolContact technology prevents the Ecostat E thermostat housing from heating up, keeping it cool to the touch at all times. The cold water flowing in at the wall connection on the right passes through the basic unit behind the entire front and top sections and towards the thermostat cartridge, which is installed on the left-hand side of the basic unit. The hot water is guided from the wall connection directly to the thermostat cartridge. The mixed water from the thermostat cartridge then passes through the back and bottom sections towards the right and on to the shut-off/diverter valve. The SafetyStop at the Ecostat E thermostat handle also prevents an unexpected increase in water temperature and eliminates the danger of an excessively hot shower. www.hansgrohe.com.sg

Luxurious Handcrafted Lighting at its Finest

Photos and text by Atelier Anaka

Montreal-based Atelier Anaka is pleased to present their 2020 collection of bespoke lighting. Each piece is assembled by hand in their Montreal atelier. The glass pieces are mouth-blown and hand-cut in Quebec's Eastern townships by master craftspeople.

Atelier Anaka's 2020 collection is crafted from materials that are designed to bring out the inherent beauty found in the natural textures of glass, stone and metals. Industrial solid brass components lend a sculptural feel to the modern design of each fixture and compliment the delicate surfaces of the glass. The new collection introduces hues of Rose, Peony and Olive which blend perfectly with the classic shades of Smoke, Alabaster and Amber. Atelier Anaka has also introduced new glass shapes: The rounded-edge rectangle of the Lilianne and flattened oval of the Lennox exemplify the technical evolution of this collection. The Martin Dome, in luxurious leather finished marble is another new addition to the collection. The collection is inspired by lunar surfaces and astral bodies.

Elaine Pendant

Lilliane Pendant

Paulina Pendant

Lennox Pendant

The 2020 collection also includes the Paulina and Elaine Pendants, two perfect 12-15mm thick, hand cut blown glass globes. The Paulina features a classic Battuto cut over 50% of the surface, the Elaine features the Battuto as well as a frosted honeycomb cut. Each model is available in 6 inch or 10 inch variations.

The Victoria.15 is another addition to the collection, a sculptural branch chandelier constructed with knurled solid brass components and round opal glass orbs, perfect for lighting a dramatic staircase.

The new pieces perfectly compliment the existing collection. The Katie Pendant, one of the first luminaires created by Atelier Anaka, retains an important place in the collection. The solid brass hardware has been updated to a sleek cable system that is almost invisible, allowing the Katie to virtually float over any surface.

The Steven Dome, Atelier Anaka's most popular light fixture, has been Atelier Anaka is located in Montreal's Griffintown neighbourhood. There, a showroom exhibiting the complete collection is available to those interested in residential and commercial design solutions. A curated selection of Atelier Anaka's 2020 collection is also offered at Montauk Sofa in their Montreal, Toronto, and Chicago showrooms.

UME Studio Selects

Photos and text by UME Studio

UMÉ Studio, a design practice where traditional craft meets contemporary tastes, is pleased to unveil its debut collection of delicate yet purposeful objects for everyday living. Founded by designers Victor Lefebvre and Mei-Lan Tan, UME Studio's collection of tactile objects blur the line between art and function. As a first array of offerings that speak to the studio's unique aesthetic, each piece is a direct reflection of the technique behind it and is designed to inspire joy and thought in everyday use.

As a rapidly evolving design practice, UME Studio's practice is at once global and local. Lefebvre and Tan spend months traveling to artisan workshops around the globe to better understand century-old skills and techniques. The result is a collaborative network of artisans and designers dedicated to their craft who Lefebvre and Tan continue to work with from their new Oakland studio space, the final stop in their design journey. Keeping these traditions alive is essential to UME Studio, as is updating their forms and bringing timeless techniques into the now to achieve pieces that are less prescriptive and more personal, connected to specific cultures, people, and histories.

Drawing on their experiences at architectural firms Herzog & de Meuron and Kengo Kuma, Lefebvre and Tan deeply value the design process. UMÉ believes an object's shape and use is derived from its making. The studio develops each edition slowly and mindfully, with new pieces released periodically throughout the year. UMÉ Studio's projects vary in scale, from objets d'art to larger furnishings, and are produced either in Oakland, CA or in collaboration with an expert craftsman around the world. For each product, UMÉ Studio seeks out the highest quality materials and expertise. This considered approach explores how beauty and function can interact and even shift over time.

UMÉ Studio's debut collection is a mere teaser of what is to come. In just a few short months, the studio has expanded its global outreach efforts, deepening its skills in centuries-old craft techniques, and plans to launch additional new products in the fall.

Erode Soap Summit Series

Erode Soap Summit Series

A tactile object by nature, the Erode Soap Summit Series becomes one of desire and play, adding a different kind of beauty to the daily ritual of bathing. The design's luscious and unique shape suggests its own obsolescence—the slopes are meant to be rubbed, the ridges meant to be worn off. Each soap is poured and cast by hand, and no two soaps are the same.

Bouton Series

Cast in one pour, the Bouton series is formed like a button to showcase your everyday favorites. Hand-mixed with different minerals and natural pigments, each Bouton carries subtle textures on its surface. As the concrete settles uniquely for each pour, no two are the same. Perfect in combination with your favorite objects, the Bouton series serves as a set of trays to collect trios of items. Use as coasters or plates for serving.

Bouton Series

Salle de Bain Tray Series

The Salle de Bain series plays on oft overlooked architectural detail: the bathroom tile. By displacing the familiar shape from a quotidian surface to its own distinct form, the cast-in-concrete tray becomes a stage in which you can curate and display your favorite belongings for easy use. Three different sizes in simple geometries accommodate myriad items and routines.

Draped Flower Curtain

An ever-changing living vertical divider, the Draped Flowers Curtain contains over 100 pockets where fresh flowers can be placed, transforming the space it inhabits by offering a landscape of seasonality and personal contexts.

Salle de Bain Tray Series

Salle de Bain Tray Series

Tenon Mirror

Salle de Bain Tray Series

The limited run of 30 curtains are knit from a durable thread spun from Washi - a paper made of Manilla jute. As nature's own room divider, the flora within the curtain is the owner's choosing, free to design a floral tableau whose appearance and scent are ever changing and in sync with the seasons.

Tenon Mirror

By definition, a tenon is a simple work of joinery. Used here to create a mirror, the simple and elegant form acts as both a shelf and a support for the mirror. The Tenon Mirror itself can be reflective or translucent, depending on the surrounding light.

Concrete Series

A collection of 104 unique bowls, the Concrete Series expresses the tension between heavy concrete and its delicate edge generated by hand pouring. While one assumes concrete should be strong and durable, it is, at its core, fragile. This duality invites touch and contemplation, making it the perfect vessel for daily inspiration and display.

About UMÉ Studio

UMÉ Studio specializes in distinctive handmade items for the home. Founded by designers Mei-Lan Tan and Victor Lefebvre, UMÉ Studio is deeply committed to allowing an object's function and the process behind it to inspire its form, yielding elegant solutions for daily life. Rather than considering UMÉ one brand, Tan and Lefebvre seek out close collaborations with expert artisans and designers across the world, from Europe to Asia. UMÉ Studio's products reflect their diverse origins, inspiring joy and thoughtfulness with each use.

bathroom spaces

HOW TO CREATE A SPA-LIKE BATHROOM

The bathroom has increasingly gained importance in the home as a space for both rejuvenation and hygiene purposes, especially with our lives becoming more hectic in the modern world. Many consumers are investing more money and time into creating a bathroom which offers a tranquil sanctuary for them to recharge after a hard day at work or in school. Here are some tips on how to create a spa-like bathroom which invites users to relax and feel invigorated.

Declutter the bathroom for a more pleasant environment

The first and most important step to achieving a home spa experience is to remove the existing clutter from your bathroom. When the bathroom becomes clean with non-essential items removed, it is more sanitary and helps you to relax in a calm and clear space. After all, the bathroom should provide a refuge for you to relax and improve your mental health, and not cause stress with its clutter and chaos.

Essential items should be kept within reach, while other items should be neatly stowed away in designated storage areas. For bathrooms where space is a luxury, you could consider clever solutions which also offer functional storage space, such as hansgrohe's ShowerTablet Select 300.

The hansgrohe ShowerTablet Select 300 allows you to turn on and off the water flow of your shower with simply a press of the intuitive Select button, which works on pure mechanics without harnessing electricity in the bathroom. This nifty invention offers a consistent temperature for you while you take a well-deserved shower, and at the same time, allows you to place your toiletries on the shelf, thus freeing up space in the shower area and helps you with the decluttering.

Curating soft linen for the bathroom

Soft textures are ideal for creating a spa-like bathroom (<https://buyerselect.com/home-decorating-tips/how-to-create-a-spa-like-bathroom/>). White towels evoke a sense of cleanliness and tranquility in a spa, just as luxurious bath mats, cosy bath robes and fluffy slippers. You can take the time to look for suitable soft linen, which is appealing to the touch and invites you to slow down and enjoy a luxuriating shower after a tiring day at work.

Pick soft calming palettes

You should consider picking neutral colours such as white, beige, or soft grey to create a relaxing ambience. If it is not immediately possible to paint the walls of your bathroom in new neutral colours, you could furnish the bathroom with accessories such as bath rug and shower curtains in these soothing colours.

You could also consider bathroom fittings to match the neutral colour of your new spa-like bathroom – hansgrohe's latest Rainfinity showers are the perfect match with their elegant matte white finish and contemporary graphite grey finish of the jet disc. Nothing short of a trendsetter, the Rainfinity showers are very pleasing to the eye and can add the perfect finishing touch to a soothing and relaxing shower environment.

Try scents, music and plants

Allow yourself to be creative – you can have the plants placed on shelves or even hanging from the ceiling. A simple addition of a waterproof blue tooth speaker to play the melodies from your favourite playlist will make your daily shower an even better experience too.

Invest in a good shower product

While a bath tub may be good to have for a spa-like bathroom, it is not always possible because of factors like space constraints in the bathroom. Therefore, you can always consider investing in a good shower product instead, which can still help you to achieve a superb spa-like experience in your bathroom.

You can pick an overhead shower, commonly known as a rain shower, which offers a luxurious shower experience thanks to the water cascading down your body. The hansgrohe Rainfinity range of showers include an overhead shower, where the tilt can be adjusted between 10 and 30 degrees to suit your comfortable showering position. In addition, with the slight concave spray surface and diffused arrangement of the jet disc holes, your body is entirely enveloped with water.

PowderRain is a newly developed micro spray technology which is much finer thanks to the six fine openings that transform the spray into thousands of micro droplets. The micro droplets are very light and they fall gently on the skin without bouncing off.

If you prefer a hand shower instead, you can pick one with an invigorating spray mode, such as the PowderRain spray from hansgrohe. PowderRain is a newly developed micro spray technology which is much finer thanks to the six fine openings that transform the spray into thousands of micro droplets. The micro droplets are very light and they fall gently on the skin without bouncing off. As a result, the shower experience with PowderRain is very soothing as there is less splashing and it is quieter, contributing acoustically to an overall experience of pure relaxation. PowderRain spray is available in both the hansgrohe Raindance Select handshower 120 3jet PowderRain and hansgrohe Rainfinity handshowers.

DuraSquare Console Wash basin.

Bold paint to enlarge small spaces

Did you know a bold paint colour would expand the perceived size of your bathroom? Let us show you how the magic works.

If a bathroom renovation isn't on your calendar, the next best thing is grabbing a paintbrush. Many people wish that they had a bigger bathroom, but usually don't have the space or time to make their bathroom larger. The best way to start is with your wall colour.

One of the easiest ways to give your bathroom a spacious look is to use lots of whites, white paint and white vanity with white basin. Whites naturally recedes, especially effective in a bathroom making the space look bigger. It also reflects any available light rather than absorbing it. Since a bathroom typically has lots of white fixtures already like the tub, toilet and basin, using white for other surfaces creates a seamless look that makes the space appear as airy as possible. If you don't really need maximum storage, consider using a smaller vanity to leave a bit more open space, rather than fitting in the biggest unit you can. Leaving a little negative space will make the area feel less stuffed and thus roomier.

Not a fan of stark white? You can still get a very big and breezy effect with a tone-on-tone palette in grey and white. Choose a sumptuous tile and find a paint colour for the remaining walls that picks up on one of the hues within it. The overall effect is still serene and spa-like, without the jarring visual breaks to shrink your perception of the space. White plus grey combination is not only fashionable but also practical. It is one of the most neutral combinations which guests will not feel overwhelmed by the excess of "noisy" colours. Depending on the sanitary ceramics and accessories used, white and grey can be used to create interiors in various styles.

The Duravit's Cape Code Vanity Console & DuraSquare Basin with Metal Console could be perfect choices. The formal concept behind the wash basins and consoles is to remove the barriers between nature and the indoors, providing a place of refreshment and rejuvenation; expressed through distinctively thin edges, delicate lines and refined materials.

Dual Flush Concealed Cistern

by Kon Sanitary

KON's Dual Flush Concealed Cistern subverts the traditional mindset that a toilet must have a visible water tank. Instead, KON's cistern conceals the water supply and drainage system resulting in a better and quieter flushing effect. By employing a concealed water tank design, the sanitary ware becomes the focus of a clean and polished bathroom.

Brigitte Boulanger

Cuisine Steam's founding couple is innovating once more with the creation of a new brand that combines their 15 years of distinguished know-how with their evolving vision of the kitchen. Brigitte Boulanger and Jean Côté unveil coquo; an original modular and freestanding furniture concept for the kitchen.

"We had a need to rethink the space with complete freedom," says Brigitte, and a crazy desire to deconstruct our way of imagining the kitchen for the past several years. With coquo we are breaking the rules that define the kitchen to let magic happen with our concept."

Coquo, meaning I cook in Latin, offers versatile, timeless kitchen furniture, designed so that the pieces can be recycled in their function and in another room of the house.

In contrast to the rise of the ephemeral and the disposable, coquo aims for a clientele that is passionate, sensitive to the environment, to design, to the homemade and to traditions, and is in search of a better quality of life. Made in Montreal, from durable materials such as solid wood and steel, using traditional woodworking techniques, coquo furniture is synonymous with simplicity, versatility and durability.

"All our modules and collections are compatible and can be mixed so that you can create your own layout... To choose coquo is to distinguish oneself, it is investing in the long term with materials that defy time. It is also an opportunity to make room for beauty and warmth in the heart of your home," adds Brigitte.

Selected for the fourth edition of Passport PME, coquo benefits from the program's support for the export of its products abroad. "In addition to rethinking the kitchen, we also reflected on our distribution approach," adds Jean. "In a few months, coquo modules will be available for purchase online across North America, from Cape Spear to San Diego."

"We wanted to do something different to showcase coquo and the idea of a space that is transformed and renewed over time inspired us ... evolution and personalization are an integral part of our concept so the Pop-up shop seemed to be the perfect place to unveil coquo to Montrealers!" "We are fortunate to be able to share this space with My and Thien Ta Trung of the élément de base company. It is also a dream come true for us to work with Annie Horth and Nathalie Bouchard of Creative Flats, to whom we entrusted the interior design of the space," concludes Brigitte.

Coquo kitchen modules are now displayed, allowing visitors to discover the interior fitting possibilities of these furnishings and their application in other contexts.

No Kitchen Is An Island

No single piece of kitchen furniture is self-sufficient. Why not introduce an island counter into your kitchen? It could be the last piece to a thriving space. Kitchen islands are critical components in any kitchen.

Putting your main sink and kitchen appliances in the island can save your kitchen layout and functionality. A multipurpose surface creates a super-efficient work area and keeps the cooks centre stage. Whether you dream of creating a spot for nightly homework, gourmet meals or morning coffee, a practical and beautiful island will be the most used area in the house.

When designing a kitchen with the main sink in the island, it's important to resist the desire to centre everything. You don't want to bump into the person cooking at the range. You want to maximize counter space to one side of the sink. If you've got a large space and a deep enough island for a granite sink, then that's a great option as well. With its sleek and minimalist design, this type of kitchen sink will never run out of style.

A kitchen island isn't only a functional cooking countertop, it's a part of decor, a storage space, a seating area and it can fulfil almost any other function that you want. Today we have lots of appliances in the kitchen. There is often not enough space to place them all. Kitchen appliances such as gas hob, induction hob, hood or oven, are essential appliances for every kitchen and you can build it into your kitchen island or just place it between the parts of the kitchen island. As with any most contemporary interior additions, a custom kitchen island can be modified to suit your every need.

Similar to a kitchen renovation, the selection of kitchen fittings or appliances with the combination of kitchen island can instantly boost your property value. The Swiss-brand Franke collections, its premium materials, innovative products and sophisticated system are the ones to choose. Franke provides you with truly intelligent kitchen: sinks, faucets, hobs, ovens and hoods are smoothly combined. To suit your taste, need or idea of a kitchen, Franke offers the right solution. Whether you like them be it stylish, artistic or convenient.

IN SYNC WITH SINKS

Kee your kitchen furniture in sync with a choice sink centerpiece. It is the most used furniture in the kitchen, yet it doesn't enjoy the glitzy recognition as ceiling to floor cabinets or a designer cooktop that can do it all. We take a focus on sinks, the foremost piece to a thriving space.

With its new SilicaTec granite range of kitchen sinks, the hansgrohe brand offers a comprehensive range for the kitchen centrepiece, combining a warm and welcoming look, elegant colours, premium design and long-lasting quality. The range comprises under mount and top mount single bowl sinks, double bowl sinks and single bowl sinks with a draining board.

With SilicaTec, hansgrohe utilizes a composite made from quartz and acrylic resins, which has a natural look and is pleasing to the touch. But that's not all it has to offer: only rounded quartz particles from quartz sand, the hardest constituent of granite, are processed. The result is a smooth, hard and non-porous surface, easy to clean and dirt repellent. It is odourless, UV-stable, heat resistant, food safe, impact resistant and stain resistant. Red wine, coffee, tea and even hot pots and pans leave no trace: a robust and attractive all-rounder for even the most hectic of kitchen routines.

The new hansgrohe granite sink range offers a high degree of flexibility, as well as individual layout options with its variety of shapes, sizes and on-trend colours. Worktop and sink can integrate seamlessly into a single visual unit. And, by combining dark and light colours, you can set design accents.

The prestigious Phoenix Design studio created the minimalist, linear design of the range. The broad rim surface, so distinctive of the design, showcases the material and provides room for additional features

Franke Box Centre

by Econflo

Winner of the iF Design Award 2019

Every action is effective in a well-organized kitchen. The more kitchen components are tailored to one another, the more seamlessly everyday processes can proceed. And the more convenience they offer, the more pleasant kitchen work becomes.

The Box Center is the perfect solution for those who truly value seamless work processes in the kitchen – from the preparation to the cooking itself and all the way to cleaning up afterwards. And when you're not cooking, everything is stored away safely, hygienically and out of sight.

The new Box Center takes up this approach and perfects it in the sink area. As a result, the most important kitchen accessories needed to prepare meals – knives, cutting board, and colander – are combined, in a single compact unit, that is always in easy reach.

The Franke Box Center ensures that the most important kitchen accessories become part of the sink unit and are accessible all the time. The brand new double bowls are a perfect example of this synthesis. In the Box Center, sink and accessories belong together. During the day, the elegant accessories are at hand for food preparation because they are completely integrated into the main bowl. Overnight, the accessories are safely stored in the compartment bowl, where they dry.
